Klendathu (26-2567) Cassette

Optional: Joysticks Required: Cassette recorder Level: 16K Extended Basic $14.95

The Bugs live on the planet Klendathu. Or rather they live in Klendathu, burrowing underground—hiding from the enemy. You mustn't let their crawly appearance deceive you; they are good soldiers.

As an M.I. (Mobile Infantry), your job is to destroy Bugs—as many of them and as quickly as time and your fire and suit energy allow. Your score, rank, and pay depend upon exhausting all your firepower while conserving as much suit energy as possible. If you run out of time before you are prepared to jump back to the ship, you'll miss the ship. If you run out of suit energy before you run out of time, you won't have the energy to make the jump back to the ship. So when you flame a queen, don't expect to see the rewards right away; you have to use up all your firepower and then come back alive first.

Based on the Robert A. Heinlein novel Starship Troopers, KLENDATHU demands the coordination of firepower, suit energy and time limitations for each M.I. drop; the program includes on-screen indicators monitoring the FIRE, SUIT, and TIME remaining.

The game can be played by one or two players, using either a joystick or the Color Computer keyboard.

Roman Checkers is played on a standard checkerboard consisting of 64 squares: 8 across and 8 down. The object of the game is to outsmart an opponent and eventually occupy the most squares with your tokens. The tokens are two-sided and have an Eagle on one side and a Roman Monument on the other side. Player 1 is the Eagle and Player 2 is the Monument.

To capture your opponent's squares, you must trap one of his tokens between two of yours in vertical, horizontal, or diagonal straight lines. When you trap your opponent's token between yours, your opponent's token will "flip." When the token flips, the square is yours.

This ball of flames will pass between the two castles, back and forth, including the land surrounding. Each time a castle is struck by the fireball, its size and strength will diminish stone by stone until ultimately, only one castle remains standing. As a ZAXXON pilot, you use your keyboard to control your space fighter, just as a real pilot would. Your fighter craft dives up, down, and moves to the left or right.

The object of the game is to enter the floating fortress, strafe and destroy the enemy's defenses (thus scoring points), and survive to face the ultimate armed conflict with the armored robot, ZAXXON.

As you penetrate the planet's fortifications and weaponry, the terrain (and your survival) become more difficult. You will meet up with a squadron of enemy fighters in a head to head dog fight, on your way to the final confrontation against the armored robot and its lethal homing missile.
